

Marta Calderaro received her Degree in International Cooperation and Development Sciences from the Sapienza University of Rome, Italy and post-graduation master degree on European Project Management and SMEs internationalization processes. Since she joined APRE- Italian Agency for the Promotion of European Research, she has been specializing in Information and Communication Technologies, being appointed in 2015 by the Italian Ministry of Education, Universities and Research as Horizon 2020 National Contact Point for Information and Communication Technologies and Future and Emerging Technologies.

As H2020 National Contact Point trainee, several training modules - on H2020 ICT, H2020 FET, and H2020 proposal preparation- have been developed for International, European and Italian R & I communities: South Mediterranean R& I communities, invited trainee by the H2020 Health NCP Network, mentor for US NCPs, trainee at International Centre for Theoretical Physics, Politecnico di Torino, Istituto Italiano di Tecnologia, etc.

